WELCOME BACK

The precious gift of time!

We are all definitely busier than we were 10 years ago. Technology has speeded up our lives and made 'time' more precious, more importantly it has made our management of time a crucial factor in our health and well-being. Inevitably we feel overloaded sometimes with the 'amount of stuff' going on in our lives and crave peace and quiet as a reward for all the hard work we put in. However, it is not just peace and quiet that gives us that ultimate sense of satisfaction. Knowing we have tried our hardest, made progress on that long list of jobs we have and hence used our time productively, gives us great satisfaction as we sit and reflect, on the sofa, at the end of a long day.

Our teachers get this as they look back on their day and reflect on how well they engaged their class, how quickly they are learning and what really worked well. They are trying their best to be as efficient with their time as they can be so that every child progresses in their learning.

Could I please ask one thing of parents; something you can do with 5 minutes of your precious time that will have a dramatic impact on your children and give you that sense of satisfaction at the end of the day. Hear your children read.

Literally 5 minutes of reading (just a chapter or 5 pages) every day up to Christmas will have a profound effect on your child's learning that will set them up for life. The impact of that routine every night promotes a love of language that will help your child access so much more learning in every subject in school. It will boost their self esteem and confidence in class and improve their communication dramatically.

FIVE MINUTES PER DAY = 35 minutes per week = 9 hours before Christmas.
I am asking you to devote less than half a day before Christmas to dramatically increase the learning potential of your child.

SKYDIVE UPDATE

On Sunday 8th September, Miss Cook successfully took part in a charity skydive to raise money for a local charity. She has raised just over £600 for Charlie's Star Charity. The team of 11 skydivers that took part in the event on the day raised over £6,000.

"Thank you so much to everyone for your support in the run up to this event. I can quite honestly say I have never done anything like this before in my life! And cannot wait to do it again!"
